Holofiber,
The power behind the product

The meaning of performance fibers has changed dramatically. With Holofiber, it is no longer what the fiber does for the fabric, but what the fiber does for the body. Holofiber has been clinically proven to work with the body's own energy system to increase oxygen levels, which, in turn, can build strength, increase circulation and accelerate muscle recovery.

Holofiber, a responsive textile, can actually make a physical difference. Increased oxygen levels have been shown to reduce the chance of cramping, swelling, and fatigue, and can activate vital physiological processes.

No matter the product - socks, bandages and athletic wraps, or apparel - Holofiber is, most certainly, the power behind the product.
